HERE'S HARNOOR'S STORY!

Harnoor Gill is 16 years old and lives in Georgetown, Canada. He has a passion for volunteering. Harnoor was born in Hong Kong to Indian parents but has lived in Canada most of his life. Harnoor has been volunteering since he was three years old. His volunteer work began at age three when he started going door-to-door selling cookies to raise money for the Hong Kong Red Cross. While on his first trip to India with his parents, Harnoor came face to face with people in need. He remembers, "[It was my] first brush with poverty in the form of a freezing child in the streets during a cold winter that I realized what a difference I could make."

Harnoor stresses that he could not be where he is now without his parents. They have always supported and encouraged his desire to make a difference in the world. This was especially true after he started having problems with bullying in elementary school.

Harnoor has spent over 2,000 volunteer hours working with over 20 organizations. For him, volunteering seemed to be an excellent way to deal with bullying. Harnoor's passion for environmental issues began when he volunteered his time to fix up a local park.

In 2012, Harnoor founded the Peace Welcome Club in Georgetown. This club promotes volunteer opportunities for newcomer immigrant youths such as himself. He wanted to convince all young people that their age should not stand in the way of volunteering.

The Peace Welcome Club has done many things. It has sent more than 10,000 textbooks to local communities. Its volunteers have Newcomer - one who has recently arrived.

International - of or involving two or more nations.

Journalist - a person who writes for a large audience.

Awareness - having knowledge of.

Accolades - an award or honor.

Significant - something that is meaningful.

Prestigious - having high honor.

Emphasizes - to stress.

Recognition - identifying something.

Determined - decided.

Barrier - something that is in the way.

collected over 2,000 jeans to donate to youth in India. Each month the Club honors a young person or youth group for helping the community. Harnoor has gathered an international team of dedicated people of all ages.

In addition to running his organization, Harnoor is also a journalist. He writes for the Times of India, Indo-Canadian Voice, and The Asian Journal. Harnoor is interested in writing because “I wanted to create a difference in the lives of newcomer youth and get them to volunteer in their communities.” He uses writing to raise awareness about topics ranging from Earth Day to lung cancer.

Harnoor has received many accolades and awards. He received the Queen Diamond Jubilee Medal. This prestigious award honors the significant local or international achievements of Canadians. He also won the International Diana Award, spotlighting a young person who is acting as a positive role model. Harnoor was recognized as one of the Canada’s 15 under 15. While Harnoor emphasizes that he does not chase recognition, it encourages him.

In the future, Harnoor is determined to continue inspiring young people to get involved. He also wants to give voice to youth issues worldwide. When giving advice to other young people, Harnoor emphasizes, “Just remember, age is not a barrier to volunteer. So, start NOW!”
